Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP)

The Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP) funded by the Ministry of Environment of Korea (KME) is designed to support Graduate Studies Program for government officials working in environment or related fields in Korea's partnering countries

The main goal of MGLEP is to support the training of key personnel who have the capacity to lead the sustainable economic and social development of our partnering countries through the transfer of Korea's know-how and experiences in environmental improvement.

The KME launched the program for the first time in 2015, reflecting the demand of its partnering countries for the long-term capacity-building programs discussed during high-level meetings and through the international cooperation network of the Ministry.

This program is expected to contribute to the capacity-building in environmental policy of partnering countries by allowing the participants to experience Korea's development process, acquire specialized knowledge in the field of environment through intensive training, and strengthen the ability for policy development and analysis.

With the ownership of the program, the KME will put its best efforts to support participants of MGLEP not only in expanding their knowledge of environmental policy and technology, but also establishing valuable networks and experiencing Korean culture, society and history through this invitation program for officials of our partnering countries.

International Environmental Cooperation Center (IECC) of Korea Environmental Industry & Technology Institute (KEITI)

In 2009, the Korea Environmental Industry & Technology Institute (hereinafter referred to as "KEITI") was founded as a quasi-government organization under the Ministry of Environment of the Republic of Korea. As taking the major lead in developing environmental technologies, fostering environmental industry, and spreading eco-friendly lifestyles, KEITI is contributing to offer improved environmental welfare services for citizens and to achieve sustainable development both domestically and internationally.

The International Environmental Cooperation Center (hereinafter referred to as "IECC") has established in 2020 in order to lead the international environmental cooperation of the Korean government under the guidance of the Ministry of Environment based on extensive research and cooperation activities in an effort to make transition towards sustainable and green future.

Under the Vision, "Global green partnership platform for sustainable future", IECC is managing the Master's program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy for foreign government officials, through which we share environmental knowledge and strengthening partnership.

The Leading Education & Research Institution in Urban Sciences in Korea

Suh, Soon Tak

President, University of Seoul

The history of the University of Seoul is the history of Korea in view of social development. Since its establishment in 1918, the University of Seoul has changed its specialized area from agriculture, to industry in the 1970's, and again to urban studies in the 1980's. The university of Seoul has become more prestigious in recent years as it develops strategically Urban Studies. As the only university sponsored by the Seoul Metropolitan Government, the University of Seoul is leading the education and research in Urban Studies in Korea.

Urbanization becomes a crucial phenomenon now, and the developing world is where this drastic urbanization is occurring. For the first time, more than half of world population live in cities. Over 90 percent of urban growth is taking place in the developing world. Urbanization in the developing world was once considered unmanageable and hence restricted. However, the question is not how to constrain urbanization, but how to prepare for it, maximizing the benefits of urbanization while minimizing the negative externalities of congestion, crime, and slums. Urban planners and administrators need to understand city and urbanization for better quality of life and socioeconomic prosperity.

Korea Environmental Industry & Technology Institute and University of Seoul (KEITI-UOS) jointly offer a master degree program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy, especially designed for public officers of cities from developing countries. It aims to enable public officers to enhance their ability to improve quality of their citizens' lives by providing world-class theoretical knowledge and Seoul's practical development experiences.

The University of Seoul warmly welcomes all the KEITI-UOS Master's Program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy participants and encourages all of you to keep your passion.

Thank you.

Hub of 'International Networking' for Global Experts

Park, Hyeon
Dean of ISUS, University of Seoul

In the midst of rapid urbanization during the process of compressed economic growth our country has accumulated unique experiences and know-how's in urban development and administration field. Such urban growth of the Republic of Korea has helped gain the attention of many countries abroad hoping for an opportunity of sharing the experience. Meanwhile, although our construction companies have won high reputation in infrastructure development such as road, harbor and plant construction, the turning point for a qualitative take off has become necessary as the competition with other development-pursuing countries intensified.

Like so, having the domestic and foreign demand in consideration, providing a comprehensive solution relative to the urban development and management with our experience and know-how's and opening the way to the comprehensive package of urban development towards the whole world have become a national agenda that we must pursue. During the process, we anticipate further overseas expansion of the Korean construction companies by the development of new modules.

University of Seoul, which pioneered through the research and education of urban related fields, has met such demands of the current era by establishing the International School of Urban Sciences with the goal of fostering global city professionals in 2012. On one hand, we educate domestic city professionals so that they will be able to advance towards overseas urban development and management fields, and on the other hand, we provide foreign public officials the opportunity to learn the experience of Korea first-handedly by managing the International Urban Development Program (IUDP). In addition, our graduate school will be the platform on which domestic professionals and foreign public officials cultivate global perspectives and insights by interacting with each other and create an international network.

The ISUS is committed to establishing itself as the center of research and international cooperation in the area of urban sciences.

We expect your continued interest and support. Thank you.

2. INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL OF URBAN SCIENCES (ISUS)

The International School of Urban Sciences (ISUS) of University of Seoul (UOS) was launched in Spring 2013 in an effort to contribute to the development of sustainable urban communities in the world through an interdisciplinary program of teaching, research, and outreach. ISUS offers two graduate programs in global construction management and sustainable urban & regional development. The two-year graduate degree programs seek to provide an interdisciplinary, engaged learning environment in which students from various fields acquire the knowledge and professional skills necessary for becoming leading practitioners in the field of environment policy and sustainable development.

In addition to the regular graduate programs, ISUS created the International Urban Development Program (IUDP) in cooperation with partner agencies and institutions in order to share Korea's achievement in urban and regional development with scholars and practitioners from the world. Currently, IUDP offers the Seoul Case Study Program in partnership with several world-renowned public administration and public policy schools in the U.S., and the U.K. The one-week field study program provides graduate students from partner universities with a unique opportunity to learn the best practices of Seoul in various urban administration and development areas. Each year, IUDP also invites about 20 government officials from Seoul's global partner cities for a master's degree program, Master of Urban Administration and Planning (MUAP). The MUAP program, sponsored by Seoul Metropolitan Government is designed for municipal government officials from Seoul's global partner cities to acquire academic and professional knowledge and skills that can help them work for the special challenges their home communities have been facing with. Since 2015, ISUS has developed Master's program for Future Global Leaders in Environmental Policy (MGLEP), sponsored graduate degree program, in partnership with the Ministry of Environment of Korea (KME) for government officials from KME's partner countries. ISUS recently launched another sponsored graduate degree program in global infrastructure development, Master of Infrastructure Planning & Development (MIPD) in partnership with Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport (MOLIT) for government officials from partner countries. These sponsored graduate programs are expected to contribute to the sustainable urban development in developing countries by providing the academic and professional skills necessary for their home countries.
